- ☐ Note content. Every entry must identify the skill practiced, what the client did, the support staff provided, and how the client responded — plus follow-up when it applies.
- ☐ Marking goals. I will mark Yes only for ISP goals I actually worked on that shift, and my entries must reflect the full shift and match the time billed.
- ☐ Transportation language. MLS is not a transportation provider. I will never write that staff drove, transported, picked up, dropped off, or gave a client a ride, and my documentation will never suggest transportation was the service delivered.
- ☐ Notes before clock-out. I cannot clock out of a direct service shift until that shift's notes are complete. Notes are written at the end of the session, not reconstructed later from memory.
- ☐ In-person standard. ILS shifts are in person. Anything else requires prior supervisor approval, which cannot be obtained after the fact. I will never document a call, an attempted contact, or a no-show as an in-person session.
- ☐ Objectivity. I will document facts and observations, not judgments, diagnoses, labels, or speculation about a client's motives.
- ☐ Reporting changes and non-contact. I will document significant changes affecting services and notify my supervisor. If a client does not answer, does not attend, refuses services, or stops responding, I will contact a supervisor and document what occurred.
- ☐ Documentation integrity. I will never document a service that did not occur, copy and paste a prior note as new, state a client was present when they were not, adjust service times, document progress I did not observe, sign another employee's documentation, or use ChatGPT or other AI to write my notes.
- ☐ Corrections. If I find an error in a submitted note, I will contact my supervisor and follow MLS procedures rather than altering the record myself.

Falsification of service documentation

I understand that falsifying service documentation — including documenting services that did not occur, misstating service dates or times, or misrepresenting a client's presence, participation, or progress — is grounds for disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. I further understand that such conduct may be reportable to the Regional Center and to other agencies as required by law, and may result in referral for civil or criminal investigation.

3 Employee Attestation

By signing below I attest that I attended the ILS Service Note Documentation Training in full on the date shown above; that I had the opportunity to ask questions; that I understand the documentation standards described in this form and in the MLS ILS Service Note Documentation Guide; and that I agree to follow them in all service documentation I complete.
